

1 In the abstract:

2 A building structure that consists of several individual 3 theaters each of which has three distinct levels - - and each of 4 which has a screen for showing motion pictures of either regular 5 format or of large format- -. There is a balcony an upper viewing
6 level for first class patrons with separate entrance and exit
7 areas. There is a lower viewing level for regular class patrons.
8 The projection level is for motion picture projection equipment
9 and is located between the upper and the lower viewing levels.
10 This gives all patrons of the theater an optimal look and feel 11 for the reality of the motion picture shown on the projection
12 screen. Additionally multiple audio speakers are located
13 throughout the theater empirically so as to eliminate sound dead
14 spots.
